A large amount of important matter was crowded out this week.

THE AFRO-AMERICANS.

Tuesday May 31, has been set aside as a day for fasting and prayer, by our people in this land. It is to be hoped that it will be observed from Maine to California. In this city where there are thousands of our men and women employed under the government, in private stations as teachers, governesses, clerks, attaches, soldiers, sailors, mariners, etc., it is also expected that they will observe this day. It will be gratifying to know that all of our government employees have secured leave of absence from their departments; it will strengthen the cause that we propose to talk to God in prayer. During the day there will be divine services in various churches; in the evening there will be meetings at which discreet speeches will be made and appropriate resolutions or memorable adopted, copies to be immediately forwarded to our friends in the Senate and House and the President of the United States.

The Blaine Club, of Chicago, is calculated on six days' stay at Minneapolis. Its members will wear silk hats and dark suits and carry canes. The Young Men's Republican Club, of Baltimore, will wear brown linen dusters and high white hats and carry star-spangled umbrellas.

The Harrison and Morton Republican League will carry labretes and overcoats.

Dr. Rankin, president of Howard University, will you do the favor to have one of your English scholars, Mr. Kelley Miller, Mr. Geo. W. Cook or one of the students to write a letter to Dr. Rankin of New York, the gentleman you introduced to Washington, D. C., last week.

Dr. Rankin, in the English Vocabulary as used by refined and cultured "Capital" people, there is no such word as "darkies?"

Dr. Rankin, to be earnest, would you have consented to preside over the "Covenant meeting" had you the least idea that your own and only constituency were to be referred to as "darkies?" Own up and tell us just how you stand on this insult to us by Dr. P.

BUREAU SCRAPPS.

Mr. Samuel C. Meredith, the venerable journalist of Indianapolis, Ind., and the father of Capt. Wm. M. Meredith chief of the Bureau of Engraving and Printing is here on a visit and although in his eighty-fifth year is full of agility. Mr. Meredith leaves for his home next week and is greatly pleased with his visit at the Capital City.

Miss Anna T. Brown and Sada E. Shelton, printers' assistants have resigned their positions in the Bureau.

Miss Geneva Belt of the Bureau sang in the Operetta St. Jacobi at Alexandria, Va. last week and was credited as the "Star Singer" of Washington.

The colored printers' assistants have proved a success now for promotion in the different divisions.

There are more colored employees under the present chief than ever before in the Bureau.

WORLD'S FAIR NOTES.

The general tint of the World's Fair buildings will be pale ivory. Several of them, however, will show modification of that color.

Liberia, the negro republic, has accepted the invitation to participate in the Exposition. Forty-five nations and thirty-one colonies and provinces have now accepted, and the aggregate of their appropriations, with thirty yet to hear from, is $1,646,895.

Prof. Chas. G. Walcott of the United States Geological Survey intends to have at the World's Fair an exhibit which will illustrate a section of the earth's crust by specimens of the rock strata placed in their proper relative positions, and by collections of the characteristic fossils shown in connection with the formations in which they are found.

As evidence of the great and widespread interest abroad taken in the World's Fair it is announced that more than half of the mail now being received by the State Department at Washington is in relation to it.

William Saunders, Executive Exposition Commissioner for Canada, says that a large and excellent exhibit from the Dominion is assured. It will be especially notable in the lines of agriculture, dairying, mine and manufactures.

A model in miniature of Fort Sheridan, situated near Chicago and prospectively the chief U. S. military station, will appear in the Government exhibit.

HE ANSWERS HIS ACCUSERS.

I am now a very few years this side of forty; by profession a lawyer, by trade a shoemaker. I have been more or less for nearly twenty years a knight of the quill, and during all these years I glory in saying that I have been a follower of Christ.

What few talents the Creator has bestowed upon me, I have used in the endeavor rather to lift men to the skies than to drag angels down. When I remember that Paul, the apostle of our Savior, was persecuted, lied against, and martyred on account of his allegiance to the doctrine of the fatherhood of God and the brotherhood of man, I do not wince as the galled jade because I am called upon to answer an avalanche of billingsgate too filthy for the writer, though small as a "wasp" to sign. This contemptible stuff was dumped through your columns. You style yourself the Pilot. I think you should change your name to Scandal Monger. The duty of a pilot is to guide and steer clear of mud banks, but as your role is the reverse of this, you should either change your name or occupation.

In the outset, my article was written cursorily, I did not spend an hour in its composition. Senator Bruce never requested me to reply to the attacks being made upon him; but Sprague, publisher of the paper in question, did. He repeatedly did so. Hence it seems to have been a concocted scheme to have the shadow of a shade of excuse for attempting to malign, traduce and injure me in the community. But the shelter under which I stand protects me from the intended effects of all lying tongues.

Sprague held the article in question about two weeks before he published it, in order, as he stated, to give "wasp" a chance to see it. The truth is, he gave it to the calculator and allowed him to retain it all that time so that he could logically reply to the argument contained therein. Unable to answer its logic, he resorted to the scurrilous libel and lies that are ever the weapons of brainless poltroons. He says he has more of this. Then out with it. Let him discharge his loaded cannon. He has already shown himself to be a liar, a knave and a coward. Therefore, unless he signs his name his mouthings will henceforth be treated with silent contempt.

You called my attention to certain attacks of your and my friends in your paper, and requested me to reply to the same. You repeatedly invited, solicited and urged me to write something for your paper, and you required me to bow to the line, let the chips fall where they may.

Replying to your libel, I do not want to believe that you wish to insinuate that I could wear the epithet that you would imply. Every line of your base insinuations are absolutely false and viciously calumnious, and I fling them back in your face with the contempt that all would be assassins of character and reputation deserve. In this part as in your entire incoherent and pointless article, you display the bravery of the midnight assassin who lies in ambush and takes the life of his unsuspecting and unarmed victim. There was nothing in my article to call out such foul-mouthed slander of your artful calumny. Under the name of the brave little insect which always warns before it inflicts pain, you show yourself possessed of the characteristics of a cur when from behind a non de plume you insinuate the most abhorrent and forbidden things against me. Had you shown yourself manly enough to have appended your name to your libelous article you would have been entitled to the respect due one who is moved by high and honest motives. But by withholding your name from the public you declare that you either do not believe your false allegations or you had not the manhood to identify your vapors by signing your name thereto.

As I replied to an assault upon one of our leaders, which was written under a non de plume, I had no objection to the rejoinder under a nomenclature, provided all libellous and scandalous matter was rigidly excluded.

"He who steals my purse steals trash. 'Twas mine, 'tis his; it has been slave of thousands."

But he who filches from me my good name takes that which enriches him not, but leaves me poor indeed."

But can a man from his dark hiding place throw the poisoned javelin of low-browed malice to the injury of a respectable citizen? In the name of Him who is above every name I answer, no, for sin is a reproach to individuals as it is to nations, and it always returns to torment its perpetrator.

I repeat, you can not get a leading white journal to publish such contemptible stuff against one of its leaders as that you published against Senator Bruce.

How was it contemptible?

Do you think, dear little "wasp," that Senator Bruce could have gained sufficient influence with the majority of the people in Mississippi to be elected United States Senator, and sufficient prominence before the people of the United States to have been called upon to preside over the grandest assemblage that was ever known, I mean the National Republican Convention of 1880, and to fill all the other positions that he has served in with credit, and yet be what you say he is, "a political cipher," the "biggest clam," etc.

Do you not know, dear little "wasp," that when you say these things against Senator Bruce, you tell the people of Mississippi that they were fools for elevating him to national prominence, you tell all those brainy and eloquent men like Conkling, Garfield, Logan, Arthur, Hoar, Eliot and Rainey, all of whom were there, that they and all the rest of the delegates there present, were fools for allowing such a "clam" to preside over them. All the world said he presided with ability and dignity, but what of that, since dear little "wasp" alone has escaped from the crush of worlds and the wreck of matter to tell the intelligent people that they have been deceived by this man for twenty years and that it (little wasp) alone has invented and patented the method of unbecomingly, namely, by misrepresentation, by mudslinging, and by styling him a "clam" and a "cipher."

I repeat that as mean sentiments as those penned by little "wasp" against Senator Bruce could not have been written by the meanest white man. Why not? Because whatever a white man says against the race must be taken cum grana on account of his natural prejudice. On the other hand, when a colored man says anything against the race it is emphatically evidence against interest and is therefore first class testimony. And as no one can write a man down as big a fool as he can himself, the more he attempts to degrade and belittle an acknowledged representative of his people, the meaner he shows himself to be. There is a vast difference between honest criticism and pusillanimous assaults upon character and reputation.

There is a glory of the sun and there is a glory of the moon and each differs from the other in its glory.

When I mentioned the fact that by if we ask our home government by their brilliance discovered that rising sons, no one unless he should possess more ignorance than little "wasp" would understand that the rising young men were instances as great men, but as those destined to be so.

You say that I hope by the defense of Senator Bruce to be taken care of by him in case of republic victory next fall. Dear little "wasp," this thought did not enter the remotest corner of my mind. You are accustomed to measuring everything and everybody from a selfish standpoint, and though you make no honey, you endeavor to sting people into the narrowly contracted, selfish channel of your little mind. No dear little soul, I was not returning past favors or seeking future rewards. I was not speaking for Senator Bruce, except in so far as he is a representative of my race. Consult the files of the old New York Globe and you will find that I have always deemed it a high privilege to defend my people and their chosen representatives against such wanton traductions as emanates from you.

The entire colored press of this country, and every man who is able to raise his voice above the low hum of boneless little "wasp," have been and are still demanding larger and more commensurate official recognition at the hands of the power that be. Now put these just demands by the side of the asinine declaration that a man who in point of experience, success, and standing of Senator Bruce, has been undeservedly honored, trusted and esteemed, and that you alone escaped from the smallest cell in your small nest to tell them this.

My relation to the whole matter is thus: God first, race next, party next. He who serves his race best serves his party best. Parties are but aggregations of individuals, and nations are but different branches of the human family; and as no man respects another who does not respect himself, neither will nations or parties respect races or individuals who do not respect themselves.

The success or defeat of the republican party next fall was not in consideration when I spoke in behalf of my race, my love of which impels me to defend any one of its sons or daughters, great or small if wantonly assailed or maltreated, and this takes you in, little "wasp," should anyone with the most powerful magnifying glass be able to discover and injure you numerically. Surely you are afraid of being discovered, or you would come forward and acknowledge your identity.

Rest assured, that whether the republican or the democratic party win next fall, you will still be little "wasp," while Bruce remains ex-United States Senator, ex-R. Register of the United States Treasury, and Recorder of Deeds for the District of Columbia. You did not make him, you can not unmake him.

DEATHS.

Dr. C. M. Hammett, Health Officer, presents the following report for week ending May 21st, 1892.

Number of deaths, 106; white, 70; colored, 36. Death rate per 1,000 per annum: white, 21.4; colored, 23.5. Total population, 22,042; 23 were under five years of age, 18 were under one year old and 34 over 60 years. 21 of the deaths occurred in hospitals and public institutions.

The deaths by classes were as follows: Zymotic, 11; constitutional, 22; local, 55; developmental, 13 violence, 5.

The principal causes of death were: Croup, 0; diphtheria, 3; consumption, 15; diarrhoea, 2; erysipela, 1; typhoid fever, 2; malarial fever, 0; scarlet fever, 1; pneumonia, 3; congestion of the lungs, 1; bronchitis, 3; whooping cough, 0; kidney diseases, 11; meningitis, 2; cancers, 3.

Births reported: 27 white males, 24 white females; 21 colored males, 18 colored females. Marriages reported: 22 white; 8 colored. Still births reported: 4 white; 3 colored.

For the past week ending on Saturday the death-rate was at the normal precisely. There are no marked features presented from the reports beyond the usual number of persons over sixty years who have died. There were thirty-four of these out of a total death roll of one hundred and six, equal to 32 per cent of the total. The most of them were chronic cases of more or less long standing and many of them helped to swell the number who died of kidney diseases. Even deaths from these maladies occurred during the week which is only a continuation of the great mortality from the same causes during the year.

The contagious diseases are almost completely in abeyance. No fatal case from the major exanthematous diseases occurred, and only two cases of typhoid fever within the week. Only nine cases of diphtheria were reported with three deaths, and eight cases of scarlet fever with one death. There have been twenty-eight cases of the former malady, with ten deaths, and thirty-four of the latter with three deaths, reported during the whole month of May thus far.

ALL ABOUT SHORT HAND.

This is the title of a 32 page pamphlet of information, containing answers to all the questions an inquirer would be likely to ask about books, instruction, a list of stenographers, how to secure position, etc., etc. It will show what young men have done at home on farms and in workshop; how from the humblest beginnings the highest success has been reached by learning this art at piece-meal study, and while pursuing other occupations. The success of stenographers as compared with the success of young men in any other vocation in life, will be seen to be very lucid and encouraging. The author of this system was himself a farmer's boy and learned the art while following the plow. The information given in this pamphlet will be of interest and value to every young man (or young woman) who must earn their own living. The pamphlet is mailed for five cents postage stamps to any one writing for it and mentioning the paper in which this article appears. Address D. L. COTT-BROWNE, 251 West 14th Street, New York, N. Y.

CHEAP EXCURSION TO GETTYSBURG BATTLEFIELD.

For the dedication of the Monument on June 2nd on the Gettysburg battlefield, designating the "High Water Mark" of the Southern Confederacy, the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad Company will sell round trip tickets at all stations east of the Ohio river at the low rate of one fare for the round trip. The President of the United States, members of his Cabinet, the Governors of twenty-five states, members of their staffs, and other distinguished persons as well as several military and civic organizations will participate in the imposing dedicatory ceremonies. This will afford an excellent opportunity for a cheap excursion to the historic battle ground by veterans and others desiring to visit the scenes of the greatest conflict of modern times.

The President Will Go to Rochester.

WASHINGTON, May 25.—The President and his party will go to Rochester, N. Y., to attend the Memorial Day exercises in a special train via the Northern Central Railroad, leaving Washington, Saturday, May 28, at 7 a. m., and reaching Rochester at 7 p. m.

An observation car will be attached to the train, from the platform of which the President may make speeches at points on the route. Secretary Elkins, Postmaster General Wanamaker, possibly other members of the Cabinet and a number of Congressmen, in all about thirty-five persons, will accompany the President.

The return to Washington will be made either Monday night, the 30th, or Tuesday by daylight, as President Harrison may prefer. The President will make a short address at Rochester on Memorial Day. The oration of the occasion will be delivered by President Hall, of Rochester University.

An Attempt to Rob Rock Island Train.

An attempt was made Sunday night to rob the Rock Island train near Des Moines, Iowa. The would-be robbers piled pies on the track. The night track-walker, when he came along, was shot at but he succeeded in signaling the train to stop. The trainmen removed the ties. The train was the regular night express and is generally crowded with passengers. It is thought to be the work of a gang of hoodlums who have been real-izing about train robberies.

A Wheat Crop Shortage.

Grain Inspector Clausen figures that in North and South Dakota and Minnesota there is likely to be a shortage of from 40,000,000 to 50,000,000 bushels from last year's yield of wheat, which is conceded to have been about 150,000,000 bushels.
